

Current Conditions

Safety Issues

- Long crossing distance create a dangerous environment especially for slower users like young children or older adults
- Cyclists hug the curb weaving in and out to move around parked cars.
- Cars move faster than the posted speed limit because of the excessive street width

Accessibility Issues

- This type of street appeals to confident cyclists but is not safe for all ages and ability levels
- Zero-carbon modes of transit are not considered or encouraged by the current street design
- Local residents especially children have difficulty moving around their immediate neighborhood safely and independently
